WOMAN'S PLACE: THE HOME.

There are really some very good arguments against woman's suffrage. But the one most often used is stupid to a degree. That is that woman's place is the home.

No one who stops to think has any reason to say that such is the case when statistics show that in large cities one-third of the women of voting age are employed outside of the home. Some of these from choice, in the present industrial structure there is no place in the home for them. There is not enough in the home to keep women at home, when we have stripped it of weaving, spinning, dressmaking, breadmaking, candle dipping, and the countless other industries that busied our grandmothers. Feminists are not to to be sure, but most of them because

For the last few days a number of New York politicians, parrot like, have tried to stall the New York votes for women advocates with the argument that woman's place is the home. The suffrage leaders heard this state of affairs, and in a few days as I feel it, mothers, but I want you stupid argument just once too often. If this was the most convincing argument against their cause they would show the politicians that woman's place is not the home.

The project is daring. If it is carried out it will involve enormous financial loss. It would ed about the walls. No toilet facilities, practically stop the hands of the no dresser, nothing for beauty or even practically stop the hands of the clock for a day.

The proposition is to call a "womof the telephone industry alone, if for they complied with the theory that omen's place is the home?

What of the garment makers' industry if women remained at home

What of the public schools if women teachers stayed at home? There And what of the husband

The hope of the suffrage leaders n New York is to call the strike for some day toward the end of Septem- + ber or the first of October. Their only hope of success will be through the aid of the women's labor organ-

Of course the project will not come to much. Most women are too closely involved in the interests that would suffer by such a strike to be willing to go into it. Most women are too closely interested in the welfare of the men of the community to want to attempt it. But just the thought of what wide effect such a project would have ought to make those stupid politicians who cling to the wornout argument stop and think.

There is rejoicing among the hausraus of Germany. News has been given out by the imperial bureau of potato supply that there are more potatoes in the empire than was at first announced. Ever since the war broke out there has been economy in the use of potatoes; starch factories and distilleries have been as careful as possible in the use of their supply, and hausfraus we pared the potatoes they cooked, oh, so sparingly, and have used every crumb of the vegetable prepared. The result of such economy, says the Kaiser's imperial, potato counter-or whoever it is who keeps track of such things-is that there are over 7,000,000 double hundredweight of potatoes left over from last year's crop to add to the 50,000,-000 double hundredweight of this year's crop.

The Cretonne Rage. Yes, they are using it by reams and square miles for every piece of feminine apparel under the sun. It startpenders were added and it was called a "garden frock." Then some one thought that her especial pattern of cretonne would make a cheerful separate skirt for morning wear with thin blouses, and, lo, a thousand other people thought so, too. And now there is a cretonne coat suit in one shop and cretonne lined coats in another, while we have had whole bevies of cretonne beach costumes for the bathing season. Perhaps the prettiest use of this cheerful fabric is for children's morning dresses, and penders were added and it was called for children's morning dresses, and when combined with plain colored linen for pockets, collar, cuffs, and sash and topped with a quaint cretonne sun bonnet the effect is almost

Aunt Chatty's Mothers' Club Conducted by Mrs. Charity Brush

THE BOY'S ROOM

THIS is a real Mothers' Club, for the benefit of mothers everywhere who are struggling with questions of discipline, training, education, clothing, for the children. Write to Aura Chatty of problems which are vexing you, and she will advise and help you to a solution of them. Write to her, too, of your own discoveries, of methods you have found successful in smoothing the rough paths of life for the tender, childish feet, that through the Mothers' Club your experience may be of benefit to other mothers who are still tangled in the web of perplexity you have so happily unraveled.

Co-operation is the secret of success in any business; so why not in the business of motherhood, that highest and holiest calling which always has been and always will be woman's crown of glory, no matter what other avenues of usefulness may be opened to her? other industries that busied our grandmothers. Feminists are not to blame for the industrial revolution that has taken women out of their one-time zone. If any one is to be blamed it is the inventors and manufacturers who have built up the present economical industrial scheme of things.

In the first home, I tried, as I allows the friends with the boy as soon as I got there. Without intending to brax, I can say I generally succeed in gaining the confidence of young people in a short time, but this boy resisted all attempts to win him. He made greens had been selected for the walls and rugs, a cabinet held the moths and some escaped from the room. He had a detached air, there were books on the shelves and a writing desk littered with drawings of place, but a spot for temporary shelter. SQUAW BLANKET WRAPS.

Evening wraps, folding like squaw blankets about the shoulders are used extensively in New York by fashionable women. They are made of every variety of material and in all colors.

Chief among them is one made in the colors of the colors of the colors.

It is three-quarters length, with the loss back pointed and finwith the long back pointed and in-ished with a tassel at the point. Another of Nile green is made or, laffeta silk. From the waist it looks like a full effect, but the top resembles the loose cape with flowing sleeves and shell colar, lined with shell pink or in ivory white. The skirt is fastened about the waist, and when one is standing the top falls and looks like a huge shell overskirt. The ef-
